

Big Smoke

London's finest.
Mildly metallic navy blue that's as naughty as a night in a smoky pub.

Branwen's Feather

A purple-ish black with loads of depth and shine. Like a silky raven's feather at midnight by the Tower.

Chancer

Wear this deep, "crushed glitter" red when you are feeling particularly out of his league. He doesn't deserve you anyway.

Henley Regatta

Glitters like the Thames on a sunny day. A fusion of green and blue glitter that varies in intensity depending on the light...Beautiful!

Hoorah Henri

As soft as baby Henri's breath. One part clear, one part vanilla cream - two parts love.

Dahling

You don't have to be daring all the time. Sometimes a deep, dusky pink is just the ticket and very posh indeed.

Cream Tea

Barely there and ever so sweet. Pale and creamy, an alternative to your standard clear or sheer pink.

Fash Pack

An edgy and unusual colour. Putty meets mushroom. Sounds strange and wrong, but somehow it works, like deep fried Mars bars.

Frilly Knickers

Twinkle twinkle little drawers. Iridescent pastel glitter that looks like sprinkles on your nails. Lifts and embellishes other colours, but is also beautiful alone

Mariner

Hellooooo Sailor. Navy never felt so naughty. Across between school-uniform navy and a navy suit. Need we say more?

Pillar Box Red

A good red is like your favourite LBD, it makes you look and feel your best – even when you're faking it!

Saucy Jack

Dark, blood red. In the immortal words of Derek Smalls, "You're a naughty one, saucy Jack!"

Old Blighty

A good, solid brick colour that lies between red and brown. Sexy but sensible, just like you.

Tramp Stamp

The colour of dark chocolate. Delicious and forbidden, but not particularly sweet, like teenage English boys.

Aston

No self-respecting heiress would be caught without it! A sultry toffee colour that looks like a million quid.
